LETTER FROM KASSER FAMILY ARTISTIC DIRECTOR MATT AUGUST

Thank you for joining us for Terrence McNally's Tony Award-winning play, Master Class, led by Tony-nominated Director Marcia Milgrom Dodge (aka MMD) and starring Broadway and Hollywood star Vicki Lewis as the legendary Maria Callas. It has been a pleasure welcoming MMD back to Arizona Theatre Company, as she last directed here in 1994 for Some Enchanted Evening: The Songs of Rodgers & Hammerstein. She is an award-winning director/choreographer, receiving her Tony Nomination for Best Direction of the sublime Broadway revival of Terrence McNally's Ragtime. If you saw it, you know.

Terrence McNally was one of our great American playwrights; he wrote some of the most extraordinary plays and musicals of the 1980s and 1990s including Frankie and Johnny at the Claire de Lune; Lisbon Traviata; Lips Together, Teeth Apart; Love! Valor! Compassion!; Kiss of the Spider Woman; Catch Me if You Can; and The Full Monty, just to name a few! He received a special Tony Award for Lifetime Achievement in the Theatre in 2019.

I had the privilege of working with Terrence on the National Tours of The Full Monty from 1999 to 2004 as the production's Associate Director (under Director Jack O'Brien) and as the Director of the Australian production. We launched the North American Tour in Toronto and then moved it to Chicago, where we were set to open on September 11, 2001. Obviously, we did not. Terrence and I were the only members of the creative team still in Chicago with the cast on the day the world forever changed. As the country was reeling, and our company was both panicking and mourning, Terrence and I struggled to figure out what to do when the venue and our producers asked us to open the next night. After much soul searching and many hours of company meetings, we found a way to get the show going.

In that moment of crisis, we learned that in all the fear and confusion, people still need to gather. They need to gather to proclaim their humanity, to prove their resilience, and to be told stories of struggle and triumph. Terrence gave me the space, encouragement, and authority as a young director to steward the company from a place of fear to a place of fortitude. This was a crucible moment for me ... figuring out how to lift a group of people – both the storytellers and the audience – in a way that made them feel what it is to be human and to be able to balance trauma with hope. But the material is what made it even possible. It is the hope for a better world that Terrence explored with every one of his plays and in his entire career, a hope that unites us and betters us.

Sadly, Terrence was one of the early casualties of the Covid pandemic in 2020, and we lost him too quickly and too early. But his legacy lives on in his work. And it is immortal.

Master Class is about a character who, too, is immortal. Maria Callas, the uncompromising opera diva with a divine talent, lifted the souls of those who heard her sing to the heavens. Game recognized game, and Terrence took this idol and used her to talk about the meaning of art, the demand for artistry, and the degree to which one must aspire, rise, work, suffer, and explore to create elite, immortal art. It's not for the faint of heart.

Master Class is a story about Callas lifting the next generation of artists – whom she admires, is jealous of, is frustrated by – and maintains hope that this art form will carry forward into the future. This is also what Terrence gives us, which is why he is one of our most important playwrights. It is important to me to share his work with you during my first season here at ATC and explore the questions Terrence poses: What does elite art look like? What does it sound like? What does it take? Who are the people that will illuminate the path? What is our future with this form? We strive to answer these questions this season and will continue in our seasons to come.

Enjoy the show!

ABOUT THE PLAYWRIGHT

Terrence McNally was an American playwright, librettist, and LGBTQ+ trailblazer, described by the New York Times as “the bard of the American Theater.” One of the few playwrights of his generation to successfully pass from the avant-garde to mainstream acclaim, McNally redefined American playwriting for six decades and was the recipient of five Tony Awards: two for his plays Love! Valour! Compassion! and Master Class, two for the books to his musicals Kiss of the Spider Woman and Ragtime, and the 2019 Tony Award for Lifetime Achievement. He received the 2011 Dramatists Guild Lifetime Achievement Award (he was Vice President of the Guild from 1981 to 2001), the 2015 Lucille Lortel Lifetime Achievement Award, a 1996 induction into the American Theater Hall of Fame, and, in 2018, an induction into the American Academy of Arts and Letters. His other accolades include an Emmy Award (Andre’s Mother), two Guggenheim Fellowships, a Rockefeller Grant, four Drama Desk Awards, two Lucille Lortel Awards, two Obie Awards, and three Hull-Warriner Awards. McNally was an alumnus of Columbia University and received numerous honorary degrees, including from NYU and Juilliard, where he helped create the playwriting program in 1993. His legacy lives on in his plays, musicals, and operas that continue to be performed all over the world, as well as in his papers, which are kept and open to the public at the Harry Ransom Center in the University of Texas at Austin. MASTER CLASS

Mastery is a decision. A decision to endure the uncomfortable pains that come with the evolution to greatness. A decision to surrender your soul to the grueling fires of refinement. A life-changing decision that will either breed lifelong happiness or deep-rooted regret. A decision only you can make. And when mastery does come, it does not come quietly. At least not for opera diva Maria Callas.

Inspired by the legendary masterclasses held at Julliard, five-time Tony Award-winning playwright Terrence McNally unbars the doors to the ultimate course in what it takes to dominate the arts. Based on the woman whose talent reigns unparalleled in the opera world, McNally creates a stark image of the Callas classroom as she carefully critiques each of her eager-to-please students. Her rigor and excellence are evident and overpowering with each coaching session in which she finds moments to reflect on the whole of her career and the path she climbed to reach the top of her craft.

With no more than three people on the stage at a time, Master Class is practically a one-woman show. We are forced, alongside her students, to pay attention to the exacting spirit that possesses Maria Callas and learn a thing or two.

Throughout the play, Callas experiences a series of flashbacks that take her through her illustrious career and emotional relationships. Her rise to fame, the pinnacle of her success, and the eventual decline intertwined with interactions with other aspiring singers evoke rich emotions and insights that allow the audience to witness the intricate layers of her personality.

McNally skillfully weaves together the past and present, allowing the audience to witness both the diva's glory days and the vulnerability hidden beneath her glamorous facade. He expands upon the biographical aspects of Callas' life while delving into an exploration of the human condition, artistic passion, and sacrifices required for success. And yet, McNally manages to blend the severity of meticulous training with witty and expertly timed comedic moments.

While Maria Callas is the main subject, she stands for the countless artists who strive for perfection in their craft. She is a demonstration of someone attempting to achieve greatness while burdened by personal demons and insecurities. She is the embodiment of a tortured artist. While on the surface she exudes nothing but confidence, there are moments of weakness that come to light as she recounts incidents in her past. McNally simultaneously captures the untouchable talent displayed by Maria Callas while exposing her undeniable humanity in the process.

Master Class also serves as a tribute to the artistry that is opera. It celebrates the beauty and power of the human voice, as well as the transformative nature of music. Callas' deep-rooted passion for the art of opera becomes contagious as she lectures about why it is more than music and words on a page.

Beyond its exploration of the world of opera and the life of Maria Callas, Master Class offers a universal message about the transformative power of art and the enduring legacy of those who dedicate their lives to its pursuit. Through Callas' impassioned teachings and poignant reflections, the play reminds us of the profound impact that art can have on individuals and society.

As Callas contemplates the lessons of her life, there is a clear fire within her to elevate her students to the fullness of their potential. Callas remarks in the play, "Try isn't good enough. Do. The theatre isn't about trying. People don't leave their home to watch us try. They come to see us do." So, every attempt that takes place in her classroom is almost instantaneously shut down. Keep in mind, these are students who have auditioned to be in her class and who have been hand-selected by her. These are students that have experienced the inevitable influence of her excellence and hold her in the highest regard. And yet, there is no mercy. Either it is perfection, or it is nothing. But perfection comes at a price.

You might ask: How can a seemingly delicate and beautiful art form demand such rigor and sacrifice? We'll let Maria show you.

ABOUT MARIA CALLAS

Often hailed as the greatest opera singer of the 20th century, Maria Callas was a woman of extraordinary talent, passion, and complexity. Born in New York City in 1923 to Greek immigrant parents, Callas demonstrated an exceptional vocal gift from an early age. Her voice, characterized by its distinctive timbre, agility, and emotional depth, eventually propelled her to international acclaim and cemented her legacy as one of the most influential sopranos in the history of opera.

Callas' rise to fame was meteoric, marked by a series of groundbreaking performances that showcased her remarkable vocal range and dramatic intensity. She made her professional debut at the Athens Conservatoire at the age of 17, and her career quickly gained momentum with acclaimed performances in Italy and abroad. It was in Italy, particularly at Milan's La Scala opera house, where Callas would achieve her greatest triumphs and solidify her reputation as a prima donna supreme.

One of Callas' most notable contributions to the world of opera was her revolutionary approach to the art form. Unlike many of her predecessors, who prioritized vocal technique above all else, Callas emphasized the importance of dramatic interpretation and emotional authenticity in her performances. She was known for her meticulous attention to detail, her deep understanding of character, and her ability to infuse every note with profound emotion and meaning.

Callas' repertoire was vast and varied, encompassing a wide range of roles from the bel canto operas of Rossini, Donizetti, and Bellini to the dramatic works of Verdi and Puccini. She was particularly renowned for her interpretations of tragic heroines such as Norma, Tosca, and Medea, roles that showcased her vocal virtuosity and dramatic prowess. Her performances were marked by a rare combination of technical brilliance and raw emotion, captivating audiences and critics alike with their intensity and power.

Beyond her vocal talents, Callas was also a trailblazer in the world of opera in other ways. She collaborated with some of the greatest conductors and directors of her time, including Tullio Serafin, Herbert von Karajan, and Franco Zeffirelli, pushing the boundaries of traditional operatic staging and interpretation. She also embraced new technologies such as television and recordings to reach wider audiences and bring opera to the masses.

Despite her immense success on the stage, Callas' personal life was fraught with turmoil and tragedy. Her tumultuous relationship with the Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis captivated the public's imagination and became the subject of tabloid speculation. The affair ultimately ended in heartbreak for Callas, who was famously abandoned by Onassis in favor of Jacqueline Kennedy.

In the years following her breakup with Onassis, Callas experienced a period of artistic decline and personal upheaval. Health issues, vocal decline, and financial difficulties plagued her later years, leading to a premature end to her career and her untimely death in 1977 at the age of 53. Despite these challenges, Callas' legacy endures as a testament to the transformative power of music and the indomitable spirit of one of opera's greatest icons.

ABOUT ATC

Recognized as the Official State Theatre of Arizona with a legacy started in 1966, ATC has an unwavering commitment to delivering exceptional theatrical experiences to the communities of Tucson and Phoenix. As the sole LORT (League of Resident Theatres) professional nonprofit regional theatre in Arizona, ATC proudly sets the gold standard for artistic excellence and innovation.

ATC is led by Executive Director Geri Wright and Kasser Family Artistic Director Matt August. Each season, ATC employs world-class artists to produce professional theatre, reaching an audience of over 130,000 patrons through mainstage productions, student matinees, and community outreach.

MISSION

Arizona Theatre Company's mission is to create world-class theatre about what it means to be alive today – inspiring curiosity and creativity, sparking empathy and joy – bringing all Arizonans together.

VISION

Arizona Theatre Company's vision is to transform the lives of every Arizonan through the power of theatre.

ATC supports its vital mission with these key initiatives:

ATC Mainstage

Each season, ATC produces five mainstage productions, bringing together the best talent from across Arizona, the country, and the world. ATC playwrights, directors, designers, actors, and production teams represent the finest artists and technicians working today.

Engagement in Phoenix and Tucson ... and Beyond

ATC operates in two major cities, unlike any other LORT theatre in the country, providing a place for communities across Arizona to gather, share, and explore the art-making process, reaching beyond the metropolitan areas of Tucson and Phoenix, and enriching the theatre learning experience for all.

New Play Development

ATC provides playwrights and theater makers, both locally and nationally, a place to develop their work. Through workshops and readings, we give artists a place to incubate and launch productions, both at ATC and beyond. ATC is also proud to support emerging voices with the annual National Latine Playwrights Award and Festival.

Education and Outreach

ATC delivers inspiring experiences in a number of ways, both connected to our stages and beyond our walls, in schools, and across the state. Core programs of our education efforts include Student Matinees, playguides, and post-show discussions.

Living Our Values (LOV) Initiative

We strive to put our values at the center of who we are and what we do – continuously connecting our audiences, artists, staff, and stakeholders to our core values, creating a true sense of belonging, equity, and diversity within the organization and the communities we serve. Nowhere is this more important than the work we build and perform on our stages.
